NUREMBERG SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA – EXPERIENCE MUSIC!

Artistic quality and stylistic flexibility – these features represent the trademark of the Nuremberg Symphony Orchestra. Since its foundation in 1946 the orchestra has been active in all kinds of musical fields: opera, operetta, oratorio, film, jazz, pop and cross-over and in particular the symphonic concert. No matter which genre – it makes music an adventure.

Multifaceted repertoire

100 concerts in front of around 200,000 people are on the program each year. While the Symphonic Concerts in Nuremberg's Meistersingerhalle focus on the classical-romantic repertoire, the in-house Music Court in the Kongresshalle is dedicated to exciting genre-spanning projects from pop, jazz, film and literature. In December, the atmospheric Advent concerts with festive baroque music are a must for many visitors to Nuremberg's Christkindlesmarkt. Another special feature: the veritable open-air summer season with concerts in the Serenadenhof or at Europe's largest classical open air in the Luitpoldhain.

Versatile Chief Conductor with extensive experience

Mahler Conducting Competition winner Kahchun Wong, who will retire at the end of the 2021/22 season, will be succeeded as chief conductor by the internationally acclaimed, charismatic Briton Jonathan Darlington in September 2022. With his vast experience, Darlington represents a rare blend of artistic excellence, infectious vitality and charming communication skills. These are all strengths that promise an extraordinarily fruitful collaboration.
